

THE FINAL PUSH

But we're up to the last chapter.

It's happening now. And it's happening fast.

For a long time, so much of Ramtown was still “going to” be. More families were going to move in. The neighborhood was going to grow. And there was going to be a shul.

We're on the verge of walking through the doors and creating the kehillah we've envisioned for so long.

Until now, the basement has provided the basics: a place to daven together. A shul can be so much more.

A shul with minyanim throughout the day. A Beis Medrash alive with Torah. A place for serious davening, a shiur or a chavrusa, and the chevra that stays afterward.

A place with its own warmth, ruchniyus and identity.

A place that helps our kehillah become all it can be.

WE'VE COME A LONG WAY

We're close.

The building is ours. The work is underway.

Our members have already stepped up with real commitment to make it happen.

Now we need to finish what we started.

It's happening. And every one of us has a part in finishing our shul and creating the place where our kehillah can grow. A part in making it truly ours.

We've already shown what we can do together.
Now there's one more push.

So that very soon, we can stop talking about the shul we're going to have...

And walk through its doors.

OUR COMMITMENT

The final push.

Every commitment brings us closer to opening the doors.
